General Balbo And His Air Armada To Fly Over Kingston Wednesday

Sometime between noon and early evening Wednesday, weather permitting, the glamorous Italian Air Armada of General Italo Balbo, comprising 24 seaplanes carrying crews of four each, will soar swiftly over Kingston toward New York, where they are expected to end the first stage of the return flight to Italy. The exact time of their arrival over the city will be determined by the weather and the starting time of the flight. It was estimated that the trip would take about seven hours, the cruising speed of the armada being 145 miles per hour.

The fleet, flying in eight triads, will take the water-level route via Toledo and Cleveland, Ohio, and thence to Buffalo, Oswego and Albany, and swiftly down the Hudson River to New York city, where a welcome which is predicted will surpass that given Col. Lindbergh on the return from his Atlantic crossing. General Balbo plans to remain in New York city several days, and will visit President Roosevelt at Washington with the 24 officers of his command.

Latest advices to the Associated Press said that the air fleet would begin the journey Wednesday at 8 a. m., which would make their passing over Kingston about mid-afternoon. Their planes may easily be distinguished by the twin cabins underneath and the high white of the motors.

Winding up their stay in Chicago and their attendance at the World's Fair, the visitors rode through the city in a parade today, and were to attend a dinner and formal ball this evening.

Lithuania Mourns Darius And Girenas

Lithuanian Born American Citizens Who Fell Just Short of Successful Flight Receive Tribute of Germany and Lithuania.

Soldin, Pomerania, Germany, July 18 (AP).—The bodies of Captain Stephen Darius and Stanley Thomas Girenas of Chicago, who proved in death their right to be classed among the great aviators, were to start on the last leg of their flight from New York to Lithuania today.

The two were killed here yesterday, only 400 miles from their goal, after flying 4,500 miles, in about 38 hours without a stop. Police, investigating the wreckage of their plane, the Lithuanian, said the gasoline tank was empty and the fliers evidently had piloted their ship into the treetops of a woods, mistaking it for a grassy field.

All last night the fliers' bodies were guarded by six Nazi Storm Troopers, standing rigidly at attention. Their bier was covered by a Nazi flag and by garden flowers. Four Lithuanian Army officers are to come today to accompany the bodies to Stettin and thence, by airplane, to Kaunas, the Lithuanian capital, for burial.

The Lithuanian government has declared a period of national mourning for Darius and Girenas, for whose arrival thousands had waited all Sunday night at Kaunas. Both were American citizens and served in the United States Army during the war, but both were born in Lithuania. Darius was a retired captain of the Lithuanian Air Corps.

Judge Caffey ordered a bench warrant issued for Harriman's arrest. The court's action came when the inquiry to determine whether Harriman was mentally fit to stand trial on the indictment was scheduled to be resumed.

City Judge Busy With Vagrants Today

Eleven men arrested for vagrancy occupied most of the time of Judge Bernard A. Calloton in police court this morning. All of them were sentenced to 30 days in the Ulster county jail, but serving of the time was suspended provided they left the city within an hour. They thanked the judge in chorus and left the court room.

George Brown of Germantown, Charles Holler of Newburgh and James McBride of New Jersey, three of the hoboes, were arrested Monday on Summer street by Officers Fred Stout and G. Burger on complaint of Anthony Lawatsch who said they used a building of his in which to lodge.

The other vagrants were arrested early this morning at a camp near the Washington avenue viaduct. Patrolmen Ernest Boss, Urban Healy and G. Burger took them into custody in a roundup started as the result of a robbery at the Ontario & Western freight house last night. An employee of the railroad notified the police this morning that a burglar had broken a window, entered the freight house and stole $6 and some bags. As no clues of guilt pointed toward the hoboes they were let go on the suspended vagrancy sentence.

The men arrested at the camp were: John McCarthy of New York city, Daniel Melleck, no home; Peter Carlsen, Auburn; Thomas Lyons, Geneva; Otto Kemp, New York city; Mike Rosko, no home; Joseph Kane, Cleveland, O.; and Herbert Higgins of Kingston.

Taxpayers Organize Officials Continue In Marbletown Under Probe Into Death of Justice Hasbrouck Walter Schoonmaker

Judge Hasbrouck Presides at Meeting in Stone Ridge in Form League Working to Make More Economical Government—Mr. Crawford Elected President.

A meeting was held on Saturday, July 15, at the Grange Hall, Stone Ridge, for the purpose of forming a taxpayers' association for the township of Marbletown, over which Judge G. B. Hasbrouck presided. Hollister Sturges of Stone Ridge opened the meeting, introducing Judge Hasbrouck.

Present by invitation was Colonel Arthur F. Cosby, secretary of the New York State Branch of the National Economy League. Colonel Cosby spoke briefly of the problems which confronted the taxpayer in New York state. "State taxes alone have risen," he said, "from $24,000,000 in 1903 to over ten times that amount, in 1932, local taxes have increased 500 per cent and adding Federal taxes amount in New York state alone, to the staggering sum of two and one-half billion dollars approximately." He spoke of the work of the National Economy League, which is endeavoring to reduce national, state, and local expenditures.

"Organization," Colonel Cosby said, "is the only way in which the taxpayers can bring about effective and economical government, which can only come through reorganization of local government, bringing the present archaic form to modern efficient system. This requires repeal of the mandatory laws and proper revision of the state constitution." Judge Hasbrouck next introduced George J. Mutari, president of the Ulster County Taxpayers' Council, who described the work of the council in Ulster county. Mr. Mutari urged strongly that a taxpayers' organization be formed in Marbletown, which could assist the county council in carrying out its program.

Arthur W. Richards, president of the New Paltz Citizens Association, also spoke, stressing the need for revision of state and local government. He also urged the citizens of Stone Ridge and surrounding territory to unite and make themselves felt.

A number of the prominent citizens of the locality were present, and, after the formal meeting, it was moved and seconded, then, carried by a unanimous vote that a taxpayers' association to be known as the Taxpayers' Association of Marbletown, be formed.

Mr. Crawford of Stone Ridge was elected chairman, and Mr. Sturges, also of Stone Ridge, was elected temporary secretary of a committee to carry out this project.

Agree to Restriction Of Wheat Exports

London, July 18 (AP).—Henry Morgenthau, American Wheat negotiator, announced today that the "Big Four" wheat producing nations had reached an agreement with the Danubian countries providing for restriction of exports from the Danube area to 54,000,000 bushels this year and 50,000,000 next.

From other sources it was learned that Thomas A. Le Breton, Argentine's representative, and Stanley M. Bruce, Australia's delegate, had been present at the negotiations only by proxy. It was said, however, that they were likely to agree to the scheme published by Morgenthau.

The Czechoslovakian representative asked 24 hours to communicate with his government before saying acceptance was final, but it was indicated that a favorable response was expected.

Accord Resident Was Found Drowned in the Rondout Creek—Reported He Had Driven Money Recently from the Bank.

The authorities are continuing their investigation into the death of Walter Schoonmaker, 73 year old resident of Accord, who was found drowned in the Rondout creek Monday by Sergeants Lockhart and Hopkins of the State Troopers. Schoonmaker lived along the creek between Accord and Allgerville. On Friday he was missed and his horse was found partly unharnessed by the barn. In the lane nearby was found Schoonmaker's hat. It was thought foul play may have been involved in the case and an investigation was started. Monday the body was found about 200 yards from the house, in the Rondout creek.

On the back of the head was found a mark and District Attorney Cleon B. Murray ordered an autopsy performed by Dr. George F. Harker of Kerhonkson and Dr. Joseph Jacobson of Kingston. The autopsy revealed no serious wound, in fact the wound was a small scalp wound which did not penetrate to the skull. One eye was also injured, probably from the fall down the bank.

A check-up on the movements of Schoonmaker on Friday is being made to determine where he was and with whom he was during the day before returning to his home. There was a difference of opinion as to whether the play was on whether there was foul play, but the examination of the autopsy disclosed no serious wounds or indication of an attack. It is reported that Schoonmaker had drawn a sum of money recently from the bank and when the body was found there was still a small sum of money in the pockets.

Mr. Schoonmaker formerly teamed and worked on the town roads in the vicinity but for the past few years has not been steadily engaged. He lived alone in a small place near the old tow path along the D. & H. canal. He apparently returned home Friday evening and started to unharness his horse. The autopsy revealed a bad heart condition and he may have been seized with a heart attack and started out for assistance and slipped into the creek. The circumstances are still being investigated by the authorities.

Mr. Schoonmaker was born in the town of Rochester November 27, 1859, a son of Isiah Schoonmaker and Elizabeth DuBois, his wife. Since the death of his wife some time ago he had resided alone in the house along the creek.

Surviving are three daughters Luella of Port Ewen, Ada of this city, Inez of Accord and three sons, Clifford of Florida, Richard of Bedford Springs, Pa., and Anson of Accord.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock from the Huston Funeral Home Kerhonkson.

Every other precaution will be taken to see that the test is as near perfect as possible.

Rumored O'Connell About to Be Returned

Albany, N. Y., July 18 (AP).—An air of heightened expectancy spread over Albany today as rumors flew thick and fast that Lieut. John J. O'Connell, Jr., was about to be returned by his kidnappers. Some of the rumors apparently had their source close to the family.

The Putnam street neighborhood furnished a report which indicated that the 24-year-old son of the politically powerful O'Connell family actually might have been returned late last night. No newspaper men saw an automobile which neighbors said drove up to the O'Connell house after midnight, but numerous persons declared that such a machine arrived, and a few minutes later the house at 14 Putnam street was bright with lights and noisy with voices and laughter.

Thomas J. Comerford, 52, editor of the Kingston Daily Leader and president of the Leader Company, Inc., died this afternoon at the Benedictine Hospital, following an operation for appendicitis Friday evening.

Mr. Comerford besides being well known in publishing circles in this section, was active in Democratic politics, attending many of the local, state and national conventions of that party. While a resident in Kingston he never held public office, but was content to act in an advisory capacity.

He came into political prominence in Dutchess county, where he resided before coming to Kingston, during the campaign of "Sheriff Bob" and Lewis Stuyvesant Chamber for recognition by the Democratic organization, where as a leading spirit of Poughkeepsie Trade and Labor Council, he became a warm advocate of the Chamber cause.

Upon the establishing by the Chambers of the Dutchess Democrat, a weekly paper, he became one of its editors. This publication later merged with the Poughkeepsie Enterprise. Mr. Comerford later sold his interests and established himself in the publishing business in Fishkill.

About 20 years ago he sold his interests in Fishkill and came to Kingston where he acquired the controlling interest in the Daily Leader by purchase from John E. Kraft.

Mr. Comerford was popular and amiable and made many friends in this section. He was a keen and forceful writer, ready speaker and active in all civic enterprises. He was prominent in Chamber of Commerce activities. Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., K. of C. and other war work, and was a member of the Knights of Columbus and St. Joseph's Holy Name Society. He was a member of St. Joseph's Church.

Mr. Comerford had worked all day Friday, and complaining of a pain, he was rushed to the hospital where it was found that his appendix had burst. An emergency operation was performed, and his condition until last evening was reported favorable.

The Sticky Bears

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

Jelly Bear and Honey Bear had gone straight to the building where jams and jellies were being shown. They waited until most of the people had visited the building and then they settled down for a feast.

"There's some honey in the honeycomb for you, dear Honey Bear," growled Jelly Bear softly. "I've always said that you should have the best at all times and that looks very good."

Honey Bear began eating the honey and then Jelly Bear lifted off the tops of the jelly jars and had all the jelly he could eat.

"We'd better hurry," he said after awhile, as now some people could be heard coming into the building.

They went out another door and wandered on until they came to a stand where chocolate taffy was being made. Oh, it looked so good, and the Bears watched it being pulled and twisted and then covered with powdered sugar, ready for customers.

When the man at the taffy stand saw the money the Bears put down on the counter he gave them a great deal of taffy.

It stuck to their chests, to their paws, to their mouths, but oh, it was so good!

They had a little money left, but they were beginning to feel a little strange.

"Maybe we'd better lie down for a little while," said Jelly Bear weakly.

"Maybe so," agreed Honey Bear in a low tone of voice, and they arrived back at the shed, covered with jelly, honey and candy.

ACCIDENTAL DEATHS SHOW DROP IN 1932

Motor Vehicles Still Lead as Cause of Deaths.

CHICAGO—Accidental deaths numbered 56,000 in the United States during 1932, thus registering a decline for the second successive year, according to "Accidental Facts," just issued by the National Safety Council. The total for 1930 was 56,350 and for 1931, 57,415. Last year's total, therefore, was 10 per cent under 1931 and 11.5 per cent under 1930, the all-time maximum. The 1932 total is also smaller than in any year since 1924, when 65,044 persons were killed in accidents.

Motor vehicles still lead as a cause of accidental death. Automobile accidents took 29,500 lives last year, some accidents claimed 25,000, public fatalities (not involving motor vehicles) 19,600, and occupational accidents 15,000. About 2,500 occupational deaths also involved a motor vehicle and this duplication must be eliminated to arrive at the 56,000 total.

There were approximately 5,400,000 accidental injuries last year and the wage loss, medical expense and overhead insurance cost involved in injuries and deaths totaled $2,600,000,000.

Fewer Motor Accidents.

Last year witnessed the first drop ever recorded in motor vehicle accidents. The total of 29,500 deaths may be contrasted with 33,075 in 1931, 32,925 in 1930, 31,215 in 1929 and 27,906 in 1928. The percentage decrease last year was about double the decrease in motor vehicle travel as reflected in gasoline consumption.

About 44 per cent of all traffic accident fatalities involved pedestrians. In addition to the 29,500 motor vehicle deaths last year there were approximately 1,035,000 non-fatal injuries of which about 85,000 were permanent in character. The cost of these accidents, not including property damage, is estimated at $620,000,000.

In about 44 per cent of the fatal accidents reported, the driver had been drinking. In less than 1 per cent were poor eyesight or other physical defects noted. Thus 95 per cent of the victims had no apparent physical or mental defect which should have prevented the efficient operation of the vehicle.

Speed Not Always Factor.

Although the importance of speed is an accident fact which cannot be ignored, most of the fatal accidents in cities occurred when the vehicle was traveling at a rate of between 20 and 25 miles per hour.

Occupational accidents took 15,000 lives last year. This compares with 17,500 in 1931, 19,000 in 1930 and 20,000 in 1929. In addition, there were approximately 1,200,000 non-fatal injuries.

Tobacco, laundry, cement, and the printing and publishing industries are the "safest" industries as far as the relative frequency of accidents per man-hours worked is concerned. The lumbering, mining and construction industries have the worst records, both in frequency and severity.

Fatalities in Home.

Home accidents claimed 25,000 lives last year, only 1,500 less than motor vehicles. They also caused about 4,105,000 non-fatal injuries.

While domestic fatalities dropped slightly from the preceding year, the decline is smaller than in any of the other principal classes.

Approximately 43 per cent of all home fatalities are the result of falls and another 19 per cent are chargeable to burns, scalds and explosions. The kitchen seems to be the most dangerous spot in the house, for 34 per cent of the fatalities occur there. Another 23 per cent occur on stairs and in halls.

Deaths caused by public accidents (not motor vehicle) dropped to 18,000 in 1932 and non-fatal injuries are estimated at 2,100,000.

Drownings and firearms played the largest part in this toll.

Bread's Higher—What's Pushing It? Well, So's Wheat, Say The Bakers

New York AP.—Flouring out the cost of the loaf of bread is a difficult task, especially for the purpose of comparing costs in two periods.

Recent rises in retail bread prices already have drawn attention to the problem. Important to housewives and to experts at Washington watchful lest the increases become excessive.

Ingredients Show Rise.

Federal statistics show that the cost of the ingredients of bread increased about 1.33 cents between February and July, but statistics are lacking as to increased costs resulting from higher prices for cotton flour sacks, for paper used to wrap the loaves, for gasoline in delivery trucks, for higher taxes, for wage increases or the other factors which go into the loaf's cost.

One baker estimated that 15 per cent increase, about 1 cent, of wholesale prices in New York would cover costs, and that retailers might or might not increase prices by a similar amount. He said a uniform price for bread was somewhat misleading since some loaves contained superior materials.

Practically every ingredient going into the loaf gained in cost between February and July. Wheat, plus the processing tax, moved up about 1.33 cents, sugar from .05 to .10, malt from .05 to .06; lard substitute from .11 to .15, dried milk from .15 to .20. Yeast and salt were unchanged.

"Makings" Cost One-Third.

The cost of these ingredients, according to a study by the Federal Trade Commission, represented about a third of the cost of a loaf selling at about 8.555 cents. The wholesale baker's profit was .651 cents and the retailer's profit 1.279 cents.

Labor costs, while they have risen somewhat, do not tend to advance considerably because of the mechanical efficiency of the modern baker. One of them said if necessary he could run his plant with 9 men, one for each baking station—that is, at

If bread consumption were increased costs might even decline a little, he said, because greater production could be effected with few extra men.

I learned about "Toasting" from my husband

I used to think that "Toasting" was just an advertising phrase. But one day my husband explained to me what "Toasting" is—and what it does. Where he learned it all, I don't know, but I began to understand the difference in cigarettes. Now I find myself enjoying Luckies' mildness and fine taste with a new respect. But even more—since I am a woman quite sensitive to personal daintiness—and since my cigarette and my lips are so intimately related, I especially appreciate the comforting purity of "Toasting". Naturally, with me it's always "Luckies Please!"

Quaint Ruffle-Trimmed Frocks

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

SPEAKING in terms of statistics, if all the ruffles that trim this season's ruffiest frocks should be measured yard for yard and placed in a single row, they would extend around the circumference of the earth—well, we will leave it to you to figure out for yourself how many times. Anyway, what we started out to say is that designers are employing no end of ruffles on summer gowns.

Ruffles have a way of bespeaking the alluringly feminine as no other form of decoration seems to have, which is exactly the point we wish to stress, namely, that the call of the present mode is for lovely ingenue types in frocks which "say it" via quaint wide flounces and countless wee ruffles and ruchings and cunning puffs and the like.

The exquisitely sheer materials, chiefly organdies, chiffons, mousselines de sole, dotted swisses and cotton nets upon which fashion places such unmistakable emphasis this season, yield so gracefully to this form of ornamentation it is no wonder that a veritable riot of ruffles and such now adorn the mode.

There is nothing conventional about the new ruffled effects. As a matter of fact, ruffles and their near relations such as puffs and frills of various sorts are performing the most audacious capers imaginable. They are as apt to run up and down the length of a skirt as to go around and around, or perhaps they will go into a huddle on each shoulder or play merry-go-round in dozens and dozens of tiny ruffles which achieve a knee-depth hemline, and when they form themselves into little diaphanous shoulder capes made of organdie or sheer mousseline as many ruffles have a habit of doing this season, it would seem as if fancy could conceive of nothing more flattering in the way of feminine adornment.

Just to show you how perfectly lovely ruffles can be when handled by an artist who knows "lines" we are illustrating in the foreground of this picture a "dream of a gown" designed by Lyolene of Paris. This charming debutante dance frock is fashioned of an all-white chiffon of bengberg. It does not seem possible, to look at this exquisite sheer weave, that it launders beautifully, but it does. Not only that, but it is wrinkle proof. The narrow rose velvet sash which ties in a simple bow at the back gives just the right touch of color.

If you like dotted swiss you will be charmed with the dress shown to the left in the group. For this model of pale blue dotted swiss is combined with white organdie. Look close and you will discover that the little bodice of swiss fastens in points at the front over a semi-blouse of the organdie. Puffs on the sleeves of the organdie give that sprightly youthful silhouette which is characteristic of all gowns this season which are made of the popular starched sheers.

As to the girlish frock pictured to the right, isn't it just a "darling"? We think it is. It is made of quaint checked organdie—white and any color which suits your fancy best. See how fitted-to-a-nicety is the skirt about the hips. Young girls insist on this sleek, slim silhouette for their newer gowns. The broad ruffle which is cut on the bias is sewed on with a "heading." The puffed sleeves and the full ruffle about the neckline, and the large bow tell the story of present fashion trends most eloquently. The girle of black crepe ribbon is also a "last word" feature.

EYELET EMBROIDERY

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Renewed interest in eyelet embroidery is expressed this season. Which is not surprising for there is nothing prettier for summer frocks and ensembles. The model pictured is of red and white eyelet, with white organdie trimmings. It seems that these lovely open-work weaves are being put to many uses, chief among which is their adoption as media for jacket and frock ensembles such as a navy or brown eyelet dress or skirt topped with a bolero or finger-tip coat of the same.

WHITE IS CLASSIC FOR UNDERTHINGS

White is of course the classic for summer lingerie. It's an excellent choice, for we shall be wearing much white, for sports, daytime and evening, which makes white the logical choice in underthings.

Much lace trimming is the rule. Real lace, of course, if your pocket-book will permit. If not one of the excellent imitations which are now in the market. Hand-run Alencon looks satisfyingly rich, and is not too expensive. Most people prefer lace in cream color, or a light café-au-lait shade.

An innovation for summer wear is the very brief fitted step-in of crepe, with insets of latex mesh at the sides. This garment actually weighs less than an ounce—and yet offers some restraint over the hips. Shows with this is a clever bandeau, made of double net, which has been prearranged so that it comes from the laundry without losing its shape. This bandeau is shaped with tiny darts to give a cupped line, and it has slender silk elastic straps which are guaranteed not to "ride up." It is backless, for evening wear.

Chic Paris Evening Gown

Fairly dripping with fringe and smartness oozing from every smocked stitch that covers the hips of a white crepe evening gown, Augustabernard holds high the banner of her reputation. She continues in the first line trench of haute couture.

The fringe of this model is fastened down in a smocked design from the normal waist to well over the hips, whence it is freed and flows to the hem of the skirt which grazes the floor. The corsage is one of those draped affairs with a low lined back and front décolletage.

Shokan, July 15.—On Sunday, July 17, 1823, Miss C. L. Chase played the new melodeon at the regular preaching service in the Shokan Dutch Church. Miss Chase conducted a music class here and played at the singing school exercises held in the Shokan schoolhouse. A Shokan young woman, she made her home at S. Hadler's in the neighboring township, holding her local classes at such houses in this vicinity where melodeons were available. Some of her pupils 70 years ago included Miss Auer Davis, later Mrs. Daniel Ennist and grandmother of Harley Bishop of Kingston, and Miss Adeline Bots, daughter of the Rev. W. R. Betts. Jubilee singing books used by the musical association in those days were purchased at Wynkoop's book store in Kingston, and the schools were held at early candle light.

Camp High Point and Camp Olive at Bokeing are the joy for the town's most densely populated centers.

Abbie and Ernie Constable of High Point Mountain Farm are well prepared for the holding of their annual meeting by today. Everybody's invited with prospects of a bang up dinner and supper prepared by the boys' congenial housekeeper, Mrs. May McGreevey. Abbie and Ernie with their annual haying bees keep alive the traditions of a customary old time haying bees held along these once well tilled mountain farms, now being reclaimed by nature's many willing hands made hard days work light days days when mowers came with their scythes for miles around, cut over the whole farm and left the gathering of the hay for other succeeding days by the farm owners and help probably of a few nearby neighbors, who had their turn in rotation. Surely those were the good old days and what a sight to see a whole string of mowers swinging over their swaths like clockwork. And in those days there was invariably a plentiful supply of New England rum to jerry along the merritolling crowd.

Local milk route producers are in the process of receiving their first checks for milk covering the month of June from the Slater Hill Milk and Cream Company, which succeeded the Roundout Valley Creamery Company on June 1. There is a sizeable increase in the milk price noted, citing as an example a check of one local dairyman who received the preceding month shipped 3,985 pounds of milk having a test of 3.65. The price paid was at the rate of $1.34 per hundred less hauling charges. The fact that all of the milk hauled at the creamery must not be shipped in fluid form entitles an extra payment of eight cents per hundred net. However a increased milk price is largely offset by the constantly rising feed prices which apparently will leave the farmer as formerly, just holding a bag.

Secretary Wallace, for example, has the duty of supervising the fact reaching farm relief act. Secretary Perkins is assigned the task of employment. Secretary Ickes has charge of the gigantic public works plan.

When President Roosevelt selected members of his cabinet, probably along with gauging their fitness to administer their particular departments, political considerations were not overlooked.

When congress returns in January and the political aspects of the legislative program have to be weighed, the pros and cons of the recovery administration and the regular affairs of the government must be considered in the light of the elections of next year.

For Example—

It is to be expected that the cabinet itself and not the newly created recovery council will be the place where these phases will come light.

As an illustration, suppose the subject of a particular state organization comes up at a meeting of the recovery council. In all probability the questions and recommendations on the subject will be made with the idea of obtaining the greatest degree of efficiency.

But it is likely that any political considerations arising in connection will be dealt with in the cabinet.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—There wasn't much advance notice of President Roosevelt's creation of a council to speed recovery plans.

When the announcement was made, press and public were quick to tab the new organization as a "super-cabinet," and, although some observers maintain there is no justification for such a title, names of this type have a tendency to catch on.

Apparently what the President did was to create a temporary "two-house" cabinet.

According to this classification, the first is a purely representative body composed of all those who have a finger in the effort to restore the nation's equilibrium. The second is strictly representative of those concerned with the normal processes of government.

Members of the President's cabinet sit on the new recovery council apparently because they are the directing heads of various parts of the recovery plan assigned to them.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

Fashions by Eleanor Gunn

Is Fashion Taking Pity on The Larger Woman?

New York—Pity the big woman. She has more than her share of trouble, when it comes to getting herself costumed. Unless she has a dressmaker who does the right thing for her, she is confronted with stocks of merchandise that were all designed and "made" with a perfect 36 in mind. It is not easy to get dresses that are large, and at the same time either stylish or anything but hopelessly old fashioned. It is, however, not impossible. The model sketched has been featured for large women, and is worn well by them.

Plain fabrics rather than prints are the safest choice for the June-que types, although some of the small massed prints are not taboo. It is the prints with large, widely spaced patterns that should be shunned as one would the plague. White is popularly supposed to make one look larger than anything, but experts tell us this is not the case; that yellow, having the greatest visibility, is the color which is distinctly unfriendly to any but slender women.

In spite of the great popularity of both blue and white this summer, not to mention pink, there has been a noticeable increase in the number of dark colors worn, even in linens and cottons. This promises to continue, and owing to the strong influence of the '30's on the mode, there promises to be a good deal of green, and a great deal of the darker purples, grapejuice for instance.

Costs of the length sketched naturally do more for the large woman than the shorter jackets. In fact, it is not only large women who wear them better, but all women with the exception of the very short ones.

Hats at the moment give the matron a better break than for some time. Irregular outlines are better for her type.

The Dutch boy silhouette in pajamas promises to be the fad of the summer.

This ensemble is periwinkle crepe. The lines of the cap-sleeved frock and complementing boy coat are featured as especially slenderizing for the larger woman.

Fashions Little Elegancies

Paris—Feather boas and capelets, striped ribbon sashes, organdie ruffles and ruffles, embroidered lawns and organdies, flower bracelets, fancy glove cuffs and novelty belts are highlighted features of the present mode, sometimes obscuring almost to extinction the garments which are their background.

The fashion is variously attributed to a general reaction away from modernist simplicity back to the Mauve Decade.

Flashes of Life
Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Fort Hoyle, Md., July 18—Three hundred fifty soldiers of the Citizens' Military Training Corps cheered as the first battle of Fort Hoyle was won after a sharp skirmish by the air force.

Thousands of hostiles bit the mud as two fighting planes, equipped with apparatus used in case of war for spraying poison gas, cleared the marshes of the entrenched enemy.

The dead invaders were the mosquitoes which have been raiding the camp nightly to the sorrow of the soldiers.

Hey! Governor

Bellingham, Wash.—Lieut. Gov. Victor A. Meyers, Washington state's dance band leader and executive, has run afoul of the law, and it's going to cost him one perfectly good police dog if he doesn't straighten it out. County Treasurer F. I. Snyder said the Lieutenant Governor owes Wyatom county $1 dog tax and that the dog will be impounded unless the money is forthcoming by August 1.

"Looking for Me?"

Whitehall, Wis.—Search of a river for a body ended abruptly as a youth walked up and learned citizens were hunting him.

"Looking for someone?" Clarence Mathson inquired.

"It's one of the Mathson boys."

"Well, my brother Henry is shoveling coal so it must be me," Clarence replied, then went home to comfort his mother, ill from shock.

She had found Clarence's clothes on the river bank. He left them there to swim, but she didn't know that.

Lions and Drums

Milwaukee, Wis.—Bernie Smith, famous down Kinston (N. C.) way as a drummer, hitch hiked to the Elks' convention in four and a half days. But that's nothing, Binnie said, adding modestly that his greatest feat was hunting an escaped circus lion with his drum. He found the lion and beat his drum to hold its attention so its recapture was possible.

Confident At Least

Pomero, O.—Dr. Amy Whaley, who at 95 claims to be the oldest living registered dentist in the United States, was told a subscription to her favorite magazine had expired.

"Well," she said, "you'd better renew it for three years. I think I'll be able to enjoy it that long—anyhow."

LOVELY SKIN! What woman doesn't yearn for it! The fascinating screen stars who must have this priceless charm have used Lux Toilet Soap for years to keep their complexions smooth, young-looking.

Now scientists tell you WHY this soap is such a great complexion aid.

Young skin is rich in certain precious elements. As years go by, these elements gradually are lost: then skin grows dull, old-looking.

But, say scientists, Lux Toilet Soap checks the loss of these precious elements from the skin—because, tests prove, it actually contains such elements, is completely free from harshness, readily soluble. It is indeed a remarkable aid in keeping skin soft, young-looking, scientists declare.

Why don't you give your skin this scientific care?

Record Attendance at I. O. O. F. Installation

West Shokan, July 15.—District Deputy Jacob H. Rogers and staff of Catskill Mountain Lodge No. 487, was accorded the largest attendance of any of the preceding mid-year installations in Ulster county at their appearance Saturday evening, July 15, in Olive Lodge. The exceptionally large number of local members was due to the unusually early start of the district and the fact that the district officers were present with the lodge officers to give the lodge a full and complete installation.

The visitors were accorded a royal welcome on the part of the lodge members, and some of the prominent earlier arrivals were taken on a short sightseeing trip to points of main interest along the scenic south shore boulevard, under the hospitable escort of Past District Deputy Virgil C. Gordon and Department of Water Supply Foreman.

The session was opened by the outgoing Noble Grand, Edmund C. Buzler. Routine business was disposed with readily down to the point of the order. Then the presiding deputy, Jacob H. Rogers, and staff were introduced by Past District Deputy Henry A. Lamoureux as Marshall and the officers of Shokan Lodge surrendered their chairs to the installing officers. Throughout the ceremony its various phases were conducted most impressively and reflected much credit to the members of the official staff.

The group of newly elective and appointive officers who will carry on the destinies of Shokan Lodge until their successors take office next January are as follows: Noble grand, J. Gaylord Ayres; vice grand, LeGrand Shultis; warden, P. G. Alonzo Davis; conductor, P. G. Oscar Dudley; right supporter noble grand, P. G. Lester B. Davis; left supporter noble grand, P. G. William Jordan; right supporter vice grand, P. G. William Shultis; left supporter vice grand, P. G. John Harrington; right scene supporter, Edward Van Kleeck; left scene supporter, James Gordon; inside guardian, P. G. George Bishop; outside guardian, P. G. Leroy Davis; chaplain, Past D. D. G. M. Arthur E. Trowbridge. The yearly terms of secretary-treasurer and financial secretary hold over until next January.

Upon assuming the responsibilities as noble grand for the succeeding term Brother Ayres stated that he realized that a great honor had been conferred upon him and hoped that with the cooperation of his loyal staff and fellow members that he might in some measure prove true to the trust assumed. He expressed his keen appreciation for the wonderful work of the evening and in behalf of the lodge assured the large gathering that its presence was much desired and appreciated. Brother Ayres further stated that he was much impressed by so many notables and recognized speakers present and next in order called upon the district deputy for his customary expected salutation at this time.

Deputy Rogers' response was crammed with appreciation for the wonderful hospitality accorded himself and staff and for another privilege of installing the official family of Shokan Lodge. He said that in his many visits to Shokan Lodge the true spirit of Odd Fellowship had been strongly manifested and that the evening's attendance was the most responsive of any preceding summer visits about the district, but in each instance there seemed to exist a revitalized old fashioned cooperative I. O. O. F. fellowship. He felt assured that a wonderful choice had been made in the newly existing official staff of Shokan Lodge and that with a new class for initiation already forming a most successful new era seemed inevitable. Brother Rogers said that it was with keen personal regret that his term as deputy to himself and staff is drawing to a close after having enjoyed so unaltingly a season of close fraternal relationship with the lodges in and adjoining Ulster county and sections of the Hudson Valley, and even close cooperation has been shown among highly outstanding members representing the metropolitan area whose fraternal embrace has reached outward and upward to Ulster county. In closing Brother Rogers again reiterated his deep appreciation and assured that even when he has surrendered his responsibilities upon the shoulders of his worthy successor, District Deputy elect Jacob J. Donohue of Sunshine Lodge, No. 929, Highland, both himself and loyal staff were at any time stand ready and gladly aid in promoting the cause of Odd Fellowship. His most sincere farewell greeting to Shokan Lodge met with ringing applause from everyone present.

Past District Deputy Marshall Henry A. Lamoureux, the next speaker, stated tersely that he would read the address of the grand master for his speech, but falling casually into his customary humorous yet always sincere vein he spoke his oft voiced feeling of love and admiration toward Shokan Lodge and its members, whose past grands had supported him so loyally when elected district deputy in 1927 at the grand committee session held at Shokan Lodge. Wishing to give over all possible time to succeeding orators Brother Lamoureux closed with a fitting story relating to the ultra formal newsweds, Able and Rosie, which brought spontaneous laughing round. The humor and good story telling followed in turn by the remaining members of the official staff.

The speechmaking era continued with a brief but striking talk by Past District Deputy J. Henry Hill of William H. Raymond Lodge, No. 59, of Saugerties, present with members of his former staff. Brother Hill did not fail to remind of his long fondness toward Shokan Lodge and its hospitality, also of the cooperation he had been given during his term as deputy. He was greatly impressed by the exceptionally large summer attendance at installation, which revealed so readily, he said, the spirit of Odd Fellowship. Bro. Hill commended the manner in which the older members of Shokan Lodge have given way to the young men becoming members in carrying on largely the workings of the lodge through advancement to higher official positions. He commended the new noble and vice grands, both young and capable members, together with their appointive staff, and wished for their term of office unparalleled success. Brother Hill in closing, extended a cordial invitation to attend the home installation scheduled to be held in Saugerties this evening. Brother Hill is acknowledged as one of Ulster county's most outstanding members and always an indefatigable worker for the advancement of the order. His remarks were warmly applauded.

Fred Grathwohl and John Winans, members of the former deputy's staff, too, were interesting speakers, the former in the vein of his smooth, flowing humor, while Brother Winans' words were blended with notes of a more serious trend. His theme talk was of the spirit of Odd Fellowship, which he characterized as being of the fraternal atmosphere so unmistakably made manifest when brothers meet, that had brought together such a large gathering on a warm midsummer night.

Past Deputy Henry A. Lamoureux had stated in his remarks that relative to the approaching next month's Grand Lodge session to be held in Binghamton, that a most favorable opening existed which had the backing of influential New York city members for the launching forth of a candidate from Ulster county in the race for Grand Warden. In this he referred to the candidacy of Past District Deputy Arthur E. Trowbridge of Shokan Lodge, who already has been assured of support by various Grand Lodge officers whose influence would provide him a substantial backing toward his election in the 1934 New York city convention. Brother Trowbridge, who was in line several years ago, was given a fine complimentary vote at Grand Lodge, but the next year withdrew from the field in order that Brother Slemmer of Dutchess county might be given the support of the entire Hudson Valley. Brother Trowbridge, in response, said that although he deeply appreciated the consideration shown him at this time, and that as much as he would like to become a contender for the nomination with such wonderful support behind him, that it would be impossible at this time to give consideration to the project. And he took great pleasure in announcing his withdrawal in favor of his illustrious sponsor, Brother Lamoureux, whom he cited as one fully capable to lead the Odd Fellows of New York state as a representative of Ulster county and the Hudson Valley.

Brother Lamoureux last year through the dedication and at the behest of Brother Trowbridge was named on one of the important Grand Lodge committees through which he has become not a unfamiliar person in Grand Lodge proceedings. The unselfish and wholehearted suggestion shown on the part of Brother Trowbridge was most warmly applauded.

Bradley H. Shultis of William H. Raymond Lodge, president of the Ulster County Past Grands Association, was the next speaker. He commended Brother Trowbridge for his out and out statement in regard to his not being considered as a Grand Lodge candidate and of his expressed approval in behalf of Brother Lamoureux. He said that he was convinced that now the time was right for Ulster county to put forward a candidate for Grand Warden, as he had been assured strong support would be given in backing an Ulster county candidate of the type of Brother Lamoureux since Brother Trowbridge has eliminated himself from the picture.

President Shultis also spoke in unstinted praise in behalf of Shokan Lodge, where he has always found the utmost in cordiality extended on his visits and for its noted regular progress each succeeding year. He commended warmly the work of Deputy Rogers and his staff, also of the high integrity of the newly installed officers. He was much impressed by the unusually large summer attendance, and in closing wished for Shokan Lodge a renewed measure of success. He also urged that all Past Grands possible from Shokan Lodge and others about the district to attend the next meeting of the Past Grands Association to be held preceding the Grand Lodge session. The time and place of the meeting is the second Saturday night in August at Catskill Mountain Lodge, No. 487, West Saugerties. Brother Shultis's true ringing remarks were cordially applauded.

Among others who spoke briefly, but whose words were filled with the utmost appreciation were Brothers Past Grand Lewis Hommel of Bearville Lodge, Henry L. Winchell of Kingston, veteran member of Shokan Lodge; Past District Deputy Virgil C. Gordon, Past Grand Arthur Fiero of Walden and his accompanying visitor, Brother Keiffer, of Freeman Lodge; Brother Winkler of New York city, vacationing in Shokan; Past Grand Newton Van Ethen of Arctae Lodge, No. 172; Junior Past Grand Edmund C. Burgher and others.

As a final gesture of good will, Marshal Lamoureux proffered a most cordial invitation for everyone present to attend the homecoming installation of Brother Rogers at Catskill Mountain Lodge, on Tuesday evening, July 25.

With the concluding of the evening's speaking program, the reading of the minutes were dispensed with and the session formally closed for the awaiting menu of sandwiches, cake and delightfully refreshing bottled beverages which were enjoyed greatly in conjunction with the social visiting hour and galaxy of hotly contested euchre and pinchle games that finally and reluctantly brought to a close one of the most successful summer installations ever held at Shokan I. O. O. F. Long, long renowned among Ulster County Odd Fellows as a fraternal oasis bubbling over with its unstinted hospitality.

Don't Skid!

CENTER-TREAD TRACTION

GIVES YOU SAFETY!

The two greatest causes of tire accidents are skidding and blowouts. Most people know that—so almost every tire maker—eager to make a sale—now claims his tire is built to prevent both of these troubles.

But in all the hubbub—Goodyear Tires out-sell any others because of these facts:

More traction than ANY other tire

Traction means grip. Brakes may stop your wheels—but it takes tire traction to stop your car. And on streets flooded with water, cars equipped with Goodyear Tires grip and stop so much better than any other tire that in tests the next best skidded 10% farther—while others skidded up to 77% farther than Goodyear. Goodyear Tires give you traction in the center of the tread—and that's where the tire contacts the road.

Blowout Protection in every Ply

Every ply of every Goodyear Tire is built with Supertwist Cord—developed and patented by Goodyear to prevent tires from breaking down and blowing out under the strain of heat and speed. And every ply runs from bead to bead. Right before your eyes, at any Goodyear dealer's—you can see why this patented ply material prevents blowouts, how it stretches and comes back long after ordinary cords have failed.

The best buy in mileage

Because Goodyear trends are tougher and wear longer—because Supertwist adds longer life to the body of Goodyear Tires—you'd naturally expect these tires to outrun others. Well, here's the proof. The most accurate mileage records are kept by the bus operators, and Goodyear Tires on thousands of buses throughout the country are averaging mileages that represent an increase of 97% in the past five years. Goodyears are better every year.

Prices that say "Buy Now"

All you have to do is to look at today's prices to know they're low. And if you look what other commodities are doing—you know that prices can't stay where they are for long. Commodity prices already have risen 50 to 100%. Be warned in time. Better look at every wheel

Repeal Gets Test In South In Vote Today

By The Associated Press
Repeal forces racing to reach their goal before Christmas strove to round the half-way post in the south today while prohibitionists fought to send them sprawling.

Arkansas and Alabama threw open voting booths today to decide their stand on the proposal to blot the 18th Amendment from the constitution.

Tonight the foes of national prohibition will know whether they have garnered half the states necessary for repeal. Sixteen states had voted to ratify repeal up to today. Thirty-six are necessary to change the constitution.

Before the week is over 20 states, containing 49 per cent of the population of the United States will have recorded their will on the problem. Tennessee votes Thursday and Oregon Friday.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 15 (AP).—Financial markets reacted up the succeeding price trail today but were forced to hurdle huge profit-taking barriers as they reached the highest levels for the past two years or more.

Stock trading, during the early hours was at about the fastest pace of the recent upswing and blocks of 5,000 to 10,000 shares at several of the favorites changed hands shortly after the opening. Gains of 1 to 4 or more points, however, were shaded substantially around noon and some of the advance showed losses of 2 points before settling orders enabled them to climb back.

With many of the more buoyant stocks turning irregular, the falls were taken up for advances of 1 to 3 or more. Cotton was firm, but wheat, corn and rice were a trifle nervous after initial gains of 1 or more.

Johnston, Mildred Decker, Mrs. Leah Jones, Mrs. Louisa Hahn, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Lines, Matilda Hahn, Mrs. Greenharden, Robert, of Highland Falls, Mrs. Carrie Short, Mrs. Helen Farlow, Hazel Green, Edna Emmick, Walter Lasher, Herbert Hulsair, Vincent Netherwood, Joseph Netherwood, Jr., Dolores Lines, Muriel Lines, Janet Styles. Cards and blinks were played. There was singing and dancing with Mrs. Leah Jones at the piano and Mrs. Charles Fox with the accordion, after which a covered dish supper and a lovely decorated birthday cake were enjoyed by all. All left at a late hour voting Mr. and Mrs. Hulsair royal entertainers.

Practicing Economy
"Economy is good," said El Ho, the sage of Chinatown. "But it is not well to fear dire necessity so much as to live in perpetual imitation of it."

Markets, restaurants and hotels in Madison, Wis., are supplied with fresh lake fish daily by means of a chartered airplane which makes trips for a local wholesale company.

owns a hotel. Earlier around 17 cents a bushel at one time. The dollar dropped to a new low in foreign exchange markets, bonds were fairly firm.

The best advances in rail shares were registered by Union Pacific, Delaware Hudson, Southern Pacific, Lackawanna, and New York Central. Canada Dry, Standard Brands and Crown Cork were heavily traded for gains of 1 to 2 points. DePost, U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Libbey-Owens, Hercules, Alaska Junction, McIntyre Petroleum, Alaska Western, and U. S. Rubber were up 1 to 2 points or more. Homestead Mining ran up around 19 points. There were a number of declines of fractions to around a point.

With the voters of Arkansas and Alabama registering their sentiments on prohibition repeal, followers of the recently buoyant alcohol stocks exhibited signs of caution by cashing in part of their extremely large gains.

On the basis of "repeal" sentiment carrying most of the states, the so-called "wet" issues have been the most spectacular gainers of the 1933 bull market. National Distillers, down to 15 1/2 this spring, got up around 125; American Commercial Alcohol, low at 13, sprang to about 50; the Industrial Alcohol jumped 14 1/2 to 54, and various allied stocks have registered advances of several hundred per cent since March.

The Depression Child—No. 2
By BROOKS PETERS CHURCH

A very vital question to us by the depression is that of the boys and girls just graduating from high school and facing enforced idleness. Some of them are attending trade schools, many of them exist in connection with the public school system. Whatever the future may hold they will be able to practice some kind of trade when they are graduated, and their ability to face life will be increased by their knowledge and control of some craft.

For it is the "white-collar man" who is at a loss in this phase of civilization. The boy or girl who can and will work with his hands is at a premium when the business world has gone under.

There is, furthermore, a good psychological and physiological reason for encouraging manual labor in the present state of society. Every woman knows the soothing effect of sewing or knitting or crocheting, and many of the depression work at hand to be picked up in time of stress and used as a kind of vent for letting off steam.

None of us can guess the severe mental strains on the adolescent occasioned by harassed parents, homes run any which way, and a future very problematic. Youth needs stability for full development. There is solidity and stability about physical work.

Put the unemployed in the family to work, even if it means creating a job to do so. One boy or girl, by cultivating a garden, another by raising pigeons, another by cultivating blueberries which grow wild in his back lot. Still another has discovered that he likes to dig, and so he has undertaken to rebuild the driveway to his home.

Instead of "waiting for something to turn up" and becoming the Milcaubers of the future, they are all finding themselves in the real struggle with nature.

Stories of the Greatest Cases in the Career of Thomas Furlong, the Famous Railroad Detective, Told by Himself

"WE SHALL BE WILLING TO PAY YOU A FEE OF TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS."

Joseph H. Miles, and succeeded after the lapse of about twelve hours. I found that he lived at Falls City, as I have said, and that he was president of the First National bank in that place. He had a bank in another Nebraska city and a large interest in a bank at York, Pa. He was very well known and much respected. After locating him I wrote him a letter, which ran, as nearly as I can recall, as follows:

"Mr. Joseph H. Miles,
"Falls City, Neb.

"Dear Sir: If you are the son of the late Stephen B. Miles, and have a brother by the name of Samuel Miles, and a number of nephews and nieces who reside in Kansas and Nebraska, I have important information for you, and will impart it personally if you will come to St. Louis.

"I would suggest that you bring your lawyer, as I believe my information important enough to justify my so doing.

"On receipt of this I wish that you would telegraph me, stating when you will leave Falls City, and at what time you will arrive in St. Louis. On arriving at St. Louis, go to the Planters' hotel, look at the register, where you will find my name, and you can then come direct to my room, where I will be waiting for you and your attorney.

"I am using a fictitious name, for reasons that I will explain to you when I see you. Yours very truly,

"On receipt of this letter from me, Mr. Miles at once telegraphed that he would leave Falls City the same evening, arriving at St. Louis the following morning, via the Burlington route, and that he would carry out the instructions which I had given him.

I went to the Planters' hotel that evening, registered under the assumed name which I had given in my letter, and was assigned to a room on the fourth floor.

The next morning about eight o'clock Mr. Joseph H. Miles, accompanied by his lawyers, Ex-Judge Gillespie of Falls City, and Ex-Judge Martin of the same place, and the latter's son, who was a stenographer, arrived at the hotel. After we had all been mutually introduced I began by saying:

"Gentlemen, my name is Thomas Furlong, and I used a fictitious name in writing to Mr. Miles because my name and business are known to a great many people in Nebraska. A certain person who is connected with what I know to be a conspiracy against Mr. Miles resides in Falls City, of which he is an old inhabitant, and he would probably know my name if he heard it. As I did not know but that he might be connected with or know people in the telegraph office and would thus learn that I had communicated with Mr. Miles, I deemed it advisable not to use my own name. Now, I wish that you would call on any of the general managers of any of the railroads that enter St. Louis, or the president of any bank in the city whom you may know, and ask him as to my character and standing."

"Does Mr. William Nickelson know you?" asked Mr. Joseph H. Miles.

"He knows me very well," I answered.

"Mr. Nickelson is my correspondent here," said Mr. Miles. "and has charge of more than a million dollars of our estate."

We walked over to Mr. Nickelson's bank and Mr. Miles entered the private office, leaving me standing in the passage outside. As he entered the office he left the door open. Mr. Nickelson arose and greeted him, at the same time speaking to me. After the greeting, Mr. Miles said to Mr. Nickelson:

"I see that you know Mr. Furlong."

"Yes," replied Mr. Nickelson, "I have known Tom for years, and he is welcome to anything I have."

"Mr. Furlong told me that you knew him," said Mr. Miles, "and he insisted on my coming down here and asking you about his standing in St. Louis."

"After a little further conversation, Mr. Miles shook hands with Mr. Nickelson."

"What will it be worth?" inquired Harbaugh.

"We shall be willing to pay you a fee of ten thousand dollars as soon as the will is broken," the lawyer answered. "Furthermore, we will send you to the Paris exposition, paying your fare and all expenses up to the value of $5,000."

"Well," answered Harbaugh thoughtfully, "you'll have to give me a few days to think the proposition over. It's too big a thing for me to decide offhand."

The lawyer agreed to that, and Harbaugh left that evening for St. Louis, where, the next morning, he came to me and told me of the proposal which had been made to him, asking me what I thought he had better do about it.

"There seems to me to be only two things that can be done in this matter," I answered. "One is for you to ignore the proposition completely, as there can be no doubt of the rascality of all the parties who are in any way connected with the scheme. The other and, in my opinion, the right thing to do is to try and locate this man Joseph H. Miles, and apprise him of the conspiracy that is being worked up by these lawyers and his own brother. If we keep quiet and ignore the matter, they will, in all probability, secure a man who will accept the proposition, and we would be parties to this conspiracy because we failed to expose it."

"Well," answered Harbaugh, "you are the boss, and it is up to you. I have told you all I know about the matter. I told this lawyer that his proposition was a very important one, and that I should require a few days to think it over. He approves of this and expects an answer from me in about a week's time."

I at once set to work to locate Jo-whom I had sent, and feasted and dined him on several occasions when he was in Kansas City, rehearsing the part that he was to play in the conspiracy.

In the meantime the lawyer had also taken a great fancy to Harbaugh, and treated him so well that Harbaugh began to conceive an involuntary admiration for the man's generosity.

After the conspiracy was fully concocted the day arrived for the taking of the deposition of the man who was supposed to have written the will signed by the late Mr. Miles. Due notice was served on the respective parties interested, and at the appointed time our man appeared at the office of the St. Louis attorney and the taking of his deposition began. After being duly sworn, the witness was examined by the St. Louis representative of the conspirators in the usual way, until at last the question was reached:

"Did you know Stephen B. Miles, deceased, and did you not write this will for him?"

"I have known a number of men by the name of Miles," answered the witness. "Allow me to describe one of them, and if his description suits, I will be able to answer your question."

I had previously requested Mr. Miles' attorneys to let the St. Louis lawyer do all the questioning and examining, and not to object to any question that he might put to the witness, unless it was entirely out of reason. Therefore they merely sat still, carefully noting everything and objecting to nothing.

Of course, the conspirators were anxious to get a strong deposition from the witness, and therefore, he was permitted to describe the man Miles, for whom he was supposed to have written the will. His description of the dead man was perfect, and the St. Louis lawyer kept nodding his head jubilantly. When the witness had finished his description of the late Mr. Stephen B. Miles to the thorough satisfaction of the conspirators, he took the purported will and examined it carefully.

"The handwriting on that document looks like my handwriting," he said, and then added, in a loud, clear voice, "but I did not write this or any other will for Mr. Stephen B. Miles, or any other person. I have never met the man Stephen B. Miles, nor the men that I have just described. I was instructed to give the description that I have given here by these lawyers"—pointing to the St. Louis and Kansas City lawyers, both of whom were present—"and I was expected by them to testify that I had written this will, and I was promised five thousand dollars if I would do so."

The consternation that reigned among the conspirators at the exposure of this bomb in their midst can be imagined better than it can be described. Our man left the stand and the further taking of testimony was discontinued.

Mr. Miles and his attorneys believed that this had effectively ended the efforts of the conspirators, but later they produced another man who they claimed had written the second will for Stephen B. Miles. He was a young man, also a lawyer, and had at one time lived in St. Louis. He had afterward gone to Mexico, where he was discovered by the lawyers from Kansas City, and he was induced to return to Chicago, where his deposition was taken. He claimed to have written the will for an old man in St. Louis, but either he was afraid to describe him or else he could not do so, and therefore his testimony amounted to nothing.

The conspirators tried to break the original will until it was finally pronounced legal and valid by the Supreme court of Nebraska, and Joseph H. Miles' rights were thoroughly and legally established.

During the course of all this litigation two of the parties in the conspiracy died, and the others were not prosecuted for their complicity in the affair, although their actions had put Mr. Joseph H. Miles to considerable trouble and expense. They had approached him several times, making indirect propositions looking to a compromise, but, needless to say, he had promptly repelled all of them.

Harbaugh's connection with my service has long since been severed, and he is now in the employment of Mr. Joseph H. Miles, as manager of his large stock range in Nebraska, where I understand that he is doing well.

HUMORS OF SOME GREAT MEN

John Murray in London Lecture Draws Amusing Pictures of William Gladstone—Dean Stanley.

The London correspondent of the Boston Transcript, speaking of a lecture delivered by the publisher, Mr. John Murray, said:

Mr. Murray drew an amusing picture of Gladstone in bed. "The last time I was at his house," he said, "I had breakfast early and alone, as I was going to Scotland. When I had finished, I was told that Mr. Gladstone did not know that I was leaving so early, and that he wanted to have another talk with me. I went to his bedroom—a very large room with a double bed in it."

"Gladstone was dressed in a nightgown, with a brown shawl drawn round him. He was lying flat on his back, his head at the foot of the bed and his feet on the pillows. In one hand he held a cup of coffee and there was a book in the other. I shall never forget that interview and the comicality of the great lion head popping up as I went toward him."

The lecturer next alluded to Dean Stanley, whose writing was so bad that he could not read a letter he himself had written, and whose construction of "Jerusalem" into "Jerus" resulted in the compositor's setting it up as "Jones."

Two friends once dined with the dean, and there was cold duck on the table. The dean carved; but he was so engrossed with the conversation that he first let the duck slip upon the table and then upon the floor. One of the guests, knowing that the duck was the only thing they had for lunch, shouted, "I see a cat in the room!"

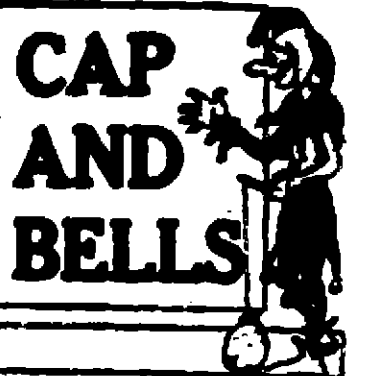

"Ah," said the dean, "you need not be afraid of the duck! I have my foot on it."

Hardwaremen Beat Dairy-men for First Victory of Season

The Herzog Hardwaremen, who, previous to Monday evening, had been unsuccessful in trying to win a ball game in the City League, finally broke into the win column by defeating the Glen Dairy-men 5-0, at the Athletic Field last night. They snatched the game from the Dairy-men after it appeared as though they were doomed to another defeat.

Jumping upon Nick Huber, Dairy-men's pitcher, in the last inning the Hardwaremen connected for five straight hits to shell him from the mound. "Packer" Davis relieved him and silenced the Hardwaremen's bats after allowing two hits, one a triple by Ed Burgerin.

Huber had been sailing along smoothly until the uprising. He had held the Hardwaremen to three hits and kept home plate free of them and everything pointed to a shutout for six innings.

Ed Flemming opposed Huber and turned in a great performance. He yielded but six hits and kept them well scattered. Errors played a big part in the runs scored against him. Jimmy Steigerwald started the attack on Huber. He hit a high fly to right field, which fell safe when Kreppel failed to get near it. Chambers followed with a single to left field and Gaddis drove in the first Herzog run with another single to left field. Steigerwald scored. Ed Flemming repeated with a single to the same field and Chambers and Gaddis tallied. G. Flemming drove Ed Flemming home with a double to right field and then Burgerin hit his triple to drive G. Flemming in with the final run of the game.

The Dairy-men's first run came in the opening frame. Feldmesser reached first on Leski's error and scored on a single by Stumpf.

A single by Feldmesser which Howard fumbled started the Dairy-men on a little rally of their own in the sixth. He stole third and dented the rubber on Stumpf's fly to Howard. Williams was safe on first on Chambers' error and reached second when Didak was walked. Krum sent him home with a single to centerfield.

SIDELINERS

The nearest the Hardwaremen came to a victory before last night was when they held the Repealers to a 5-5 tie.

Al Flanagan replaced Clayton behind the bat in the second inning and did a good job.

Ed Burgerin greeted Davis with a triple, but was thrown out at the plate.

A Weighty Matter

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Human nature and curiosity being what it is, Primo Carnera may be a popular heavyweight champion of the world, simply because his size and strength appeal to the multitude of those attracted by the sub-normal, the abnormal or merely the unusual.

"Da Preem" was once a strong boy in a circus traveling in France. No doubt the same folk who found interest in the trained flea and the lady sword-swallower paid their francs to stand in awe before the heavily muscled, thickly sinewed Italian youth, who was shortly persuaded to try wrestling for a livelihood and then built up for the more lucrative opportunities of professional pugilism.

No champion ever covered a stranger route to the top. When Carnera first came to the United States three years ago he was quite frankly exploited as a freak. His backers realized he had color and what is known as "circus appeal," but it was essential to develop the idea he had a punch commensurate with his huge bulk.

For all outward effects and purposes, this was simple enough. There was no trouble getting "pushovers." Some were brought out of retirement just to be bowled over again by the falling arms of the new man mountain. The experts laughed openly. They described the type of "bathing suits" worn by those selected to "go in the tank". The crowds packed the arenas, on Broadway as well as Main street.

Came the Inevitable

It was all in good fun. One and all went away laughing heartily as the Italian was led on one of the most extraordinary tours in fight history. A few difficulties cropped up and in Boston the battle-worn Jimmy Maloney took off the "wraps" and gave the big fellow a punching. Again in Florida Carnera failed to dislodge Maloney from his feet in 10 rounds, although Primo went through this affair with a broken rib.

That was two years ago and the unanimous verdict was that Carnera could not punch and never would be able to punch, but he still was the biggest heavyweight in the contending class and the "build-up" was not slackened.

Persistently he loomed in the background while Jack Sharkey and Max Schmelling waged their private war for the world championship, each the holder for a year and each outwardly disdainful of the giant from Italy.

It was inevitable that one or the other must take on the man mountain, and perhaps it was inevitable, too, that one or the other would tumble down from the attempt to surmount such size and power.

Given two years for development, for experience and the acquisition of something more nearly resembling a punch than the clumsy clout of a brown bear, Carnera's defeat of Sharkey may seem entirely plausible and convincing.

Who is there to match such physical handicaps with a devastating enough punch to bowl over "Da Preem," except possibly the rugged Max Baer? Isn't the very freakish build and strength of the man sufficient to keep him dominant?

Much to Live Down

Obviously, you won't find the answer here or anywhere else for some time to come. The Carnera board of directors will run no unnecessary risks in such times as these. They came in on the last big-money wave, when the folks were easily fooled and liked it, and it has been tough weathering the financial ebb tide of pugilism.

None of the logical sequence of Carnera events, however, can dislodge from memory the picture of a vast specimen lumbering against third-raters, bewildered obviously by anything approaching first-class ring ability, winning most of his "fights."

Bob Fitzsimmons made the classic remark that "the bigger they come the harder they fall" and it doesn't take much imagination to figure what a smashing fighter like Jack Dempsey or a master boxer like Gene Tunney would accomplish against the sort of a target Carnera offers.

Tagging Major League Bases

Recovered from a batting and pitching slump that threatened for a time to plunge them into the second division, the Pittsburgh Pirates were back in the thick of the National League pennant fight today.

Their pitchers clicking again and their highly-touted outfield, especially Paul Waner and Freddie Lindstrom, beginning to wallop the ball, the Pirates have won eight games of the 12 they've played since the home stand began and now trail the second place Chicago Cubs by only half a game and the pace-setting New York Giants by four. Moreover in the vital matter of games lost the Pirates show a two-game edge over the Cubs who owe their grip on second place to the fact that they've won three more games than the Pirates.

Taking full advantage of the fact that they had the major league stage all to themselves yesterday, George Gibson's hopefuls battered Brooklyn pitching for 22 hits, good for 44 bases, and trounced the Dodgers in both ends of a double-header, 14-2 and 7-0.

Brooklyn's ace twirler, Owen Carroll and Ray Benge, officially were charged with the defeats but Fred Heilmach, making his first appearance since June 24 when the Pirates slugged him for nine hits and seven runs in one inning, was the chief sufferer. Heilmach was called to the mound at the start of the eighth of the first game with Pittsburgh leading, 5-1, and before he could be removed the Corsairs had pounced on him for seven hits and eight runs with only one put out. Paul Waner's triple with the bases loaded sent Fred to the showers and Rosy Ryan came in to end the rally after one more run scored.

Pittsburgh pounded Shaute hard in the second game and finally drove him to cover with a four-run spurge in the fifth. Steve Swetonic's third hit of the game, a triple, driving in two of them. Swetonic, allowing the Dodgers only seven scattered hits, never was in trouble.

Bill Swift likewise pitched seventh hit ball in the opener and only one of Brooklyn's two runs was earned. Pie Traynor, with six hits, and Lindstrom with five, were the afternoon's outstanding sluggers.

The defeat left the Dodgers only a half game ahead of the seventh place Phillies and only 2½ games out of the cellar.

All other major league clubs were idle.

Two Distinguished Friends

at SABLES SANITARIUM

Last week brought to the Sables Sanitarium two friends who for many seasons have contributed much to the entertainment of its patients and guests. Professor George Donaldson, a teacher in the DeWitt Clinton High School of New York City and Miss Clara Almer Gottschalk, pianist and teacher, also of New York City.

Professor Donaldson gave a very interesting illustrated talk on the smaller islands of the West Indies. His charmingly colored lantern slides added greatly to the many interesting features touched upon throughout the lecture, covering the scenic beauty, the vegetation and the industries of these Windward Isles.

Miss Gottschalk is spending a few days at the Sanitarium on her way to the Adirondacks. She has been entertaining the guests in divers ways during the latter part of the week and conducted the Sunday service which she closed with a group of piano solos. On her return from the Adirondacks, she will again be at the Sanitarium.

SHOKAN.
Shokan, July 15.—Mrs. Pearl M. Ross and son, the Rev. Charles B. Ross, of Arlington, Arkansas county, were recent guests at the summer home of Mrs. Emma Holden on Van Steenburgh Hill. The Rev. Mr. Ross was formerly pastor of the Shokan and Mr. Temple Reformed churches. He now occupies the pulpit of the Reformed Church of Arlington.

Alfred Wallerstein and daughter, Anna, of Brooklyn, spent the weekend at their country home in the village center. Mr. and Miss Wallerstein were accompanied home by Mrs. Wallerstein, who has been sojourning for the past several weeks in Shokan. The family expects to come here again next week for a longer stay.

Justus and Earl North, local building contractors, are erecting the new summer residence of Miss Clara Lennox on land recently purchased of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Elmendorf. Miss Lennox, who is a trained nurse in Kingston, is an aunt of Mrs. Burr Elmendorf, at whose place she is making her home during the completion of her house. She is a sister of T. S. Lennox, postmaster and general storekeeper in Glenford.

Henry Bell, one of Newburgh's hustling young business men, was a caller in the village Monday morning.

The light showers of Sunday failed to relieve the local water supply situation though the grass and garden crops were freshened up a little by the rain. Several wells in Shokan and Ashokan are all but played out, and another week of drought will see a number of households carrying water from a distance.

Frank Bush and daughter, Edna, of Brooklyn, are spending a week at the home of Mr. Bush's sister-in-law, Mrs. R. W. Longyear, and family. Mr. Bush, who has been connected with the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company for the past 11 years, was brought up in the old village of Olive Branch. In his younger days he was one of "the boys" who foregathered at Charlie Hawk's gristmill store and other old time social centers of this part of the town of Olive.

A local marriage on July 17, 1935, was that of James Frazier, member of an old Shandaken family, to Catherine Crispell of Shandaken Center. The ceremony was performed at the Shokan M. E. Church parsonage by the Rev. John H. Lane and witnesses to the nuptials were Herman W. Winans and Mrs. Julia A. Bradbury.

Miss Shirley Granger of Rochester is a guest at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. William Guthrie.

Isabel Shultz of Glenford is spending some time at the home of her sister, Mrs. Margaret Thiel.

William Loos of New York city is again at the James Carpenter camp on the mountain road. Mr. Loos, who recently had his driver's license renewed, flew from New York to Poughkeepsie last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Anderson and Mrs. H. M. Anderson of Yonkers are spending their vacation at the hospitable home of Miss Elizabeth Giles. Mr. Anderson and his mother first came to this section more than 30 years ago, stopping at the farmhouse of John Brown, whose homestead was the present Charles Green place in the village center. Mr. Anderson is a cousin of Captain Williams of the Yonkers Fire Department, who with Mrs. Williams has frequently been a guest at the home of Mrs. John Rainey.

John J. Every of Saugerties was numbered among the business callers in the village Monday morning.

Mrs. Lily Martens and daughter, Marjorie, have returned to New York city after a pleasant sojourn of three weeks at The Calmar. Miss Martens formerly attended school in Ashokan and she has a number of friends in the twin villages who were glad to see her again.

Services in the Olive-Hurley Old School Baptist Church last Sunday were fairly well attended. The combination of a rainy day and a slippery pavement ordinarily does not make for a large gathering of Baptists, many of whom are well on in years and live at a considerable distance from Shokan. Elder Arnold Bellows of Roxbury conducted the morning and afternoon services here Sunday.

Mrs. Loren Secor of Kingston was a Sunday caller at the family summer home in the village center. Mrs. Secor has the sympathy of the entire community in the sudden death of her husband on Friday, July 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mehrhofs of West Englewood, N. J., are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Raymond Cruthers, and family at the Cruthers summer home here.

A clambake will be held at Henry L. Carlson's Tonche Mountain resort in the east end of the village on Sunday afternoon, July 30, beginning at four o'clock.

Claude Rose, local contractor, has completed a new double-door private garage for Michael Allen of the Department of Water Supply local force. Mr. Allen is having a driveway of crushed stone made from the state road into his new building.

James Carpenter of New York city spent the weekend with his family at the Carpenter camp in the hemlock woods along the west branch of the Butternutkill.

Mrs. Maria French of Columbia, N. J., is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Elmendorf of the village center. Mrs. French, whose husband, Uriah French, died last year, is a native of Shokan, her father having been Benjamin Cadney, whose old homestead was the Robert B. Beck place on the upper mountain road. For a time, following her marriage, Mrs. French resided on what is now the George Burrows farm. She is a sister of the late Mrs. Angeline Winfield and Cornelius Cadney. Mrs. French has a number of friends among the older residents of Shokan and Ashokan who are glad to have her with them again.

Edinburgh Sights

One of Edinburgh's Many Monuments.

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNC Service.

EDINBURGH, from point of many tours through Scotland, is singularly, if astutely, beautiful. The city is a honeycomb of massive stone buildings rising to heights that made it the Manhattan of the Middle Ages, some of the walls so thick that long afterward elevators could be installed without protruding into the rooms.

By all precedents and guide books, the Edinburgh visitor should head straight for Castle Hill. But to some, the first thriller they ever read, "Doctor Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," still is the most vivid tale of Edinburgh. So they hunt out Brodie's Close, dark and dank to this day, though not so evil-smelling as when its dual denizen, Deacon Brodie, was a Doctor Jekyll by day and a Mr. Hyde by night.

Pause before entering the close—you would call it an alley—and the mind's eye converges into a swift new reel of events along the history-encrusted Royal Mile, into which it opens.

Grand Dame Eleanor, countess of Stair, leaps from yonder window (still in full view) to escape a tantrum of her violent, if blue-blooded, husband. Down a "wynd" whispers one hag to another gossip from opposite seventh stories, the ancient walls leaning like two Pisas. Dainty Miss Eglington, later Lady Wallace, skips across the way to fill a kettle from the community well. Hordeshall duchess of Gordon rides a sow she had captured under a neighbor's "foresters," while her more dignified sister belabors the animal with a stick.

Only the backbone street was wide enough for carriages in those days; ladies and gallants were borne in sedan chairs by stout Highlanders into the side arteries for teas and calls. Burglars' wives, in silks or Scotland's fine wool, shopped for jewels in basement cubbyholes, or bought velvet and laces at tiny booths under roofs of the balconies reached by the peculiar foresters of nearly every tenement. They were jostled by countrywomen in green and crimson moppet, and by sailors from ships that brought over cattle and tallow from the Low Countries.

The Lawmarket Sector. Brodie's Close opens now, as then, into the Lawmarket sector of the Mile, where Scotland's parliament once ordained "all cotton cloth, white and grey; all linnen cloth is to be sold there and in no other place." Open stalls and canvas-topped booths, displaying bolts of cotton and webs of linen, were besieged as are bargain counters today.

About you remain the "lands" or tenements of the days when a city wall pressed to an altitude and compactness like the lower East side in New York. Of course, your memory can disregard time and bring events of centuries into instant focus.

Toddling aristocrats play with racing ragamuffins. They scurry at the approach of a party of Knights of France in glittering armor, their pennants flying, on their way to a tournament to compete for the coveted King's prize, a golden lance.

One day Mary, queen of Scots, spirited in spite of her ill-omened reputation at Leith, rides by on a white palfrey, a tiny pearl crown nestling on her high-dressed hair. Twelve courtiers, in black and crimson, carry a canopy for her. At Netherbow she halts to receive the keys of the city; she extends her little hand for the provost to kiss. The sun suddenly emerges and glistens in her white satin gown.

Quick-witted, she utters an impulsive greeting. "The sun comes out with me, Master Provost." The city is hers; from mouth to mouth passes the cry, "God bless her bonnie face."

No Place for Night Strolls. Ten o'clock; the tavern and clubs discharge their crowds. Everybody rushes for home. Up and down the street rings out the world's most effective curfew—the cry, "Gardy-loo" (gardes le feu). Down poor swill and garbage from hundreds of tenement windows. It is a lockless citizen who has not reached shelter.

Little wonder the fussy Roswell, trying to put his town's best foot forward

Howe About:

Better Amusements Our Failing Minds
Bernard Shaw
By ED HOWE

ALTHOUGH it is not above average in the world, it has lately been agreed among ourselves we have been working too long hours, and that in future we must play more.

And now the question comes up for discussion: What shall we do with our additional idle time? How find new enjoyments in our shiftness? Why not try some new amusements? Why not rub up our knowledge of finance, and less frequently become the victims of sharpers? Why not athletic clubs to chase outlaws, now a real menace to our homes? And speaking of homes again, why not beautify them more, and add comforts heretofore lacking? Why not clubs of citizens to improve our public affairs? Half of us are dumb as to the real value of print; why not read more, and with greater discretion? Why not pay more attention to the joys and beauties of good health? Most of us gobble our food like pigs, and lacking their digestion and shorter years, have become so quarrelsome, inefficient and dumb that one-quarter of the population is now howling for public relief, with most of the rest of us looking on shamelessly, and thinking it may be a good idea for everybody.

Do races inevitably run out? Is it hopeless to struggle for their improvement and continuance?

It seems to me I am able to note a sad deterioration since the Civil war. Compare congress now with congress of 75 years ago, and how shabbily 1933 comes off! There isn't a man of ability in the present congress (or cabinet, or Supreme court) to compare with dozens who might be named within ten years of 1858.

The deterioration of races is intellectual. We are healthier now than ever before; we have improved our lamps and our buggies, but have shamefully neglected our minds.

It may well occur to every man that he is doing well enough physically, but that his mind is failing.

Bernard Shaw has his opinion of mankind, and expresses it publicly, instead of privately, as most other men do. For this he is cordially hated, although everybody knows his opinions of humanity are sound; at least, sounder than the opinions of other writing men.

My relations with Bernard Shaw are excellent. I do not know him, or wish to know him, and never write him. I hear he is polite enough to those who have good reason to call on or write him.

During a recent journey at sea Shaw went on deck early one morning, and found an old man leaning indifferently over the rail.

"How does it come," Shaw asked, "that you are the only man on the ship who has not annoyed me?"

"Because I do not want to know you, or talk to you," the man answered.

"Ever hear of me?" Shaw asked again.

"I know all about you," the man replied. "I have read nearly everything said about you, or you have written. You are one of my heroes. I admire you because of your impudence in saying what you think of everybody and everything. I think the same things and am afraid to say them. You save me the trouble. I beg you to proceed with your walk."

Bierlin said in his memoirs: "In all my life I have known but one really intelligent and fair woman." (As every other man will probably say he has known at least one such woman, there must be a good many of them.)

Thousands have known the true philosophy of life. And been so whipped by men that now no one dares be sensible. . . . All men are more intelligent than their actions indicate. Foolish tradition, and foolish, continuous quarreling about it, have made fools of us all.

Considering the rough manner in which all men are forever trying to muss up all women, some women look very well.

It is well known that most men of discrimination have poor opinion of the people en masse, because of their low average in intelligence, morals, politeness and fairness; because of their insistence on ruining every civilization the better men have attempted.

It is often said the English have no sense of humor. . . . An Englishman relates that a child on first seeing a rainbow, asked: "What is it?" Advertising? . . . Another Englishman is reported as saying: "The only time a horse scares nowadays is when he sees another horse." . . . As a contrast I quote two of the most popular American funny men: Eddie Cantor: "He hasn't an enemy in the world, but all his friends hate him." . . . Ed. Wynn: "A bachelor is a man who never made the same mistake twice." . . . Of course all this is piffle, but perhaps it is less tiresome than the serious portions of the newspapers.

How often the horse writes: How rarely the angel, with good news, takes you to bed?

At The Theatres

Today
Kingston: "When Ladies Meet." Robert Montgomery, Ann Harding, Frank Morgan, Myrna Loy and Alice Brady are to be seen in sparkling and perfectly done comedy drama that hits a new high in screen entertainment. It's the eternal triangle again, with Frank Morgan especially good in the role of the excitement seeking publisher who falls for a modern young author, played by Myrna Loy. Her lover, Robert Montgomery, knows all about the affair, and as a last resort he brings the publisher's wife into the affair. From then on, with some of the finest acting of the year, the show moves on to the intensely dramatic conclusion. The plot is the negligible part of this picture. It is the acting and flawless dialogue that makes it the success it is. Excitement and glamour are lacking, but so human and understanding is this talkie, so finely done and flawless in its character portrayal, that it is most assuredly placed on the don't miss list of current films.

Orpheum: "Sign of the Cross" and "Roadhouse Queen." Attraction number one is the Cecil B. De Mille spectacle of the reign of Nero and the slaughter of those who followed the Christian faith. Lavish and brilliant in every detail, this picture is something to see. A notable cast includes Fredric March, Charles Laughton, Elinor Landi and Claudette Colbert. "Roadhouse Queen" is a comedy, with an all star cast.

Broadway: "The Nuisance." Lee Tracy at his unobtainable best gives a riotous performance in this popular yarn of a shyster lawyer who follows ambulances, gets to every accident and also gets numerous clients and a great deal of money for his efforts. . . . So perfect is Mr. Tracy in this role that the show has no let down, but tears along, reel after reel, growing in excitement and action as the plot progresses. He out-hoodwinks and out-wits the smart corporation lawyers every time, and uses them all as pawns and suckers until a girl, played by Madge Evans, ties him around her finger. Frank Morgan, as the drunken doctor accomplice of Tracy, almost steals the show. With a great performance while Charles Butterworth leads comedy relief that is sure fire. A bright, action-brim talkie, with every essential ingredient necessary to an entertaining evening. Don't miss.

Tomorrow.
Kingston: Same.
Orpheum: "The Conqueror" and "West of Singapore." An effort to duplicate "Cimarron" is this historic panorama of the growth of the west until the present day. It tries to bring optimism to those who worry about the future of the nation. Well acted, directed by William Wellman, and created on a gigantic and expensive scale, "The Conqueror" falls just short of being another epic picture. Richard Dix heads a cast that includes Ann Harding, Edna May Oliver and Guy Kibbee. "West of Singapore" is a thriller with Betty Compson.
Broadway: Same.
